Roz Chast's acclaimed memoir Can't We Talk About Something More Pleasant? is among the five nonfiction finalists for the 2014 National Book Award, announced this morning by the National Book Foundation. It's the first graphic novel to be nominated in one of the adult categories. The first memoir from the longtime New Yorker cartoonist, the […]

Read more: http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/10/roz-chasts-memoir-shortlisted-for-national-book-award/