When word hit that Marvel wouldn't be a presence at this years SDCC we were all very disappointed, especially those that were going to be in attendance. But then Marvel suggested that this was premature and that they would be there. Now many assumed they were just talking about comic books, but though they may not be screening anything as part of their Hall H presentation, First Showing have some inside info regarding what we might see there. Apparently the main focus will be S.H.I.E.L.D, with badges, props etc similar to Wondercon. But there is more, Hellicarrier fans read on!.. As was teased with WonderCon, S.H.I.E.L.D. is becoming the main focus of Marvel's viral marketing efforts at comic book conventions, and in San Diego this year they're going all out. More vehicles (sponsored again by Acura, but of course) will be scattered throughout, along with more S.H.I.E.L.D. personnel. We've also heard that

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=41082&t=Marvel_Bringing_iThe_Avengersi_To_Comic_Con_After_All