

With a $1.1 billion global box office and a certified-platinum soundtrack, Disney's Frozen is more than a blockbuster — it's a pop-culture phenomenon. However, the folks at How It Should Have Ended found the animated film lacked a certain ... something. Namely, an appearance by X-Men. After all, where better than Xavier's School for Gifted [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/04/frozens-ending-just-needed-a-few-more-mutants/>