

With its glacial pacing, signature earnestness and freakishly out-of-scale wildlife, Mark Trail is a fairly easy target for mockery, but the 68-year-old comic strip does have its fans. Cartoonist James Allen, who worked as Jack Elrod's assistant for nearly a decade, thought he had a pretty good idea of what those fans wanted: the occasional [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/10/mark-trail-fans-want-more-poacher-busting-less-rusty/>