

“As soon as I started getting an allowance, it was for comics. I would just go [to the store]. I didn't really have a concept of new comic day, I just thought they showed up at any given random time at Golden Apple in LA. I would just show up and was like, ‘Ooh, WildC.A.T.S.!’ [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2015/03/quote-of-the-day-max-bemis-on-90s-comics-and-the-friggin-violator/>