

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2010/11/safety-inspectors-to-examine-more-spider-man-flying-sequences/>

State safety inspectors return today to New York City's Foxwoods Theatre to continue an assessment of the complicated flying sequences for Spider-Man: Turn Off the Dark, the $60-million musical that's been plagued by a series of setbacks. According to The New York Times, inspectors were shown just 13 of the show's 27 aerial sequences during [...]