

1958 was a very interesting year for comic books. The Comics Code Authority was now firmly entrenched and many publishers had already closed up shop. 1958 represented the final nail in the coffin for a few more, but many companies continued with reduced input, while others were flush with success. Here's a look at what [...]

Read more: <http://goodcomics.comicbookresources.com/2010/10/05/scotts-classic-comics-corner-1958-a-year-in-review-pt-1/>