

Manga lovers planning a trip to Tokyo may soon be able to stay at lodgings designed specifically for them. According to Nikkei, the Tokyo company Slow Curve plans to buy leases for condominiums and apartments in the city's Akihabara, Ikebukuro and Nakano neighborhoods, and stock them with as many as 2,000 manga. The idea is [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/10/tokyo-manga-apartments-may-soon-be-an-option-for-tourists/>