

Hollywood Wiretap reports that Baltazar Kormakur enjoyed working with Mark Wahlberg so much on the yet to be released smuggling thriller, Contraband that he's decided to helm Wahlberg's latest project, 2 Guns. Conspicuously enough, the moment Wahlberg signed on to star in the project, both David O. Russell and Vince Vaughn dropped out of the film. This could be a coincidence as Russell and Wahlberg had a tremendous amount of success with The Fighter. Variety reports the project follows a DEA agent and an undercover naval intelligence officer who unwittingly investigate each other as each steals mob money. For a sample of what a Wahlberg and Kormakur film looks like, here's the trailer for Contraband: A pulp story about cops and thieves and the men that are something in between. Trench has targeted a local bank to rob, and asked Steadman in on the job. Trench figures it's a

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=47609&t=m2\_Gunsem\_Reloads\_With\_emBaltazar\_Kormakurem\_In\_The\_Directors\_Chair