

John Arturo - When did you start collecting and how did you get into the hobby? Tim Allen - I started collecting about three years ago. I originally only had two trade paperbacks (The Death of Superman and the Return of Superman) and a few miscellaneous Superman mementos. One day I saw the Superman Vs. Darkseid statue and decided that I had to have it. I love the intensity of the sculpt and the details are amazing! From there, I began to find more statues that I loved. Soon, statues weren't enough and action figures became appealing, because I could find an action figure for every variation of Superman in the modern era. From there, I began to look for anything Superman that was produced in limited quantity. Chasing down hard to find items on a budget became half the fun. John Arturo - Why

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/johnarturo/news/?a=47770&t=CBM_Collectors_Collections_-_Tim_Allen