

Earlier this week, we were treated to Marc Webb's lengthy interview in the 2012 Comic-Con Annual (find it HERE if you missed it) and now here is Emma Stone's revealing chat with the publication. While there's not a lot in terms of new details, the actress does discuss both the character of Gwen Stacy as well as sharing plenty of interesting anecdotes from her time working on The Amazing Spider-Man. What appealed to you about appearing in a big superhero franchise movie and taking on an iconic character such as Gwen Stacy? When I auditioned for it, I didn't get the full script, I only got scenes between Gwen and Peter and I screen-tested with Andrew. I heard about Spider-Man and I didn't think it was something I would want to be a part of. I just thought that probably isn't right for me. Then I had the scenes and realised that

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=54473&t=Emma_Stone_Talks_THE_AMAZING_SPIDER-MAN_In_Detail