

What if you had the means and could look like your favorite superhero? Would you jump at the opportunity? This was the dilemma for Herbert Chavez, whom loved Superman so much that he decided to cough up the money to look just like him. Herbert had work done to his chin, nose, lips, eyes, skin, thighs, and probably other things that we just don't see. The question is, what drives someone to go to this extreme? The question goes out to all of you CBMers. Would you ever attempt something like this and just how far should someone take their love of the hobby? Comment in the usual place. Here is a link to the video. It is not in English though, but you do get to see "Superman" in live action... Plastic Surgery Superman video

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/johnarturo/news/?a=47582&t=How_Far_Would_You_Go_To_Become_Your_Favorite_Super_Hero