

Comic book artist and editor Carmine Infantino passed away on April 4th. He was 87. Infantino broke into comics in 1942 working for Timely Comics which would become today's Marvel Comics. Infantino worked for various comic publishers in the 40s and 50s before being hired by DC Comics in the mid-1950s. Infantino, along with writer Robert Kanigher...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/memoriam-carmine-infantino_article_137236.html