

There were a lot of concerns after last week's quiet episode that the bulk of the remaining season would be as well. Slowly building to that "cha-ching" finale, and leaving us twisting in the wind for months. Fears should be allayed after tonight's curious, yet satisfying episode. We get gore, ghosts and gunfire...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/walking-dead-review_article_136878.html