

In response to New York Comic Con’s controversial use of attendees’ Twitter accounts to send promotional messages, and the implementation of technology allowing organizers to track individual badges, a staff member for a leading digital-rights group has written an open letter asking all pop-culture conventions to “protect our secret identities.” “You can still have a [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/10/advocacy-group-asks-conventions-to-protect-our-secret-identities/>