

When Andrew Vickers discovered some old comics in a dumpster, he did what any artist would do — OK, maybe not any artist — and transformed them into a man-sized (and -shaped) papier maché sculpture. And then he learned those comic books could have been worth nearly $30,000. The operative phrase there is could have [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/07/artist-unknowingly-creates-sculpture-out-of-comics-worth-30000/>