

Spider-Man: Turn off the Dark, the Broadway musical the was plagued by accidents in the early months of its run, has claimed another victim. The New York Times reports that dancer Daniel Curry was seriously injured during Thursday night's performance when his leg was pinned in an automated trap door during the second act. Last [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/08/dancer-injured-during-spider-man-turn-off-the-dark/>