

Not really about comics, this week, but rather about their usual next-door neighbors on the newsstands when I was growing up. The pulps had three bastard offspring that gradually replaced their pulp parents on the stands in the forties and fifties. They were comics, paperback original series fiction ...and the true crime magazines. (Or as [...])

Read more: <http://goodcomics.comicbookresources.com/2012/07/06/friday-with-joseph-koenig-true-crime-and-false-negative/>