

Subscriptions have long been a part of the comic book industry; paying your money in advance, and getting the titles by mail every month can be comforting. But a new service called Pullist is offering a very different type of subscription: one where you don't know what you're going to get. Described as a "curated [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/10/pullist-a-different-kind-of-subscription-service/>