We kicked things off with the R-Rated Deadpool (a movie no one expected to be as successful as it ultimately was), and followed that with two more critical and commercial hits from Marvel Studios in the form of Captain America: Civil War and Doctor Strange. Warner Bros. also kicked off their DC Films Universe, though their fortunes weren't as good! This was supposed to be the start of great things for that brand, but while Suicide Squad performed a little better than expected at the box office, Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice did not, and both received
