

This was a very difficult list to make. There are so many great villains to choose from and some are arguably better than others. I've spent a life time collecting comics and researching each hero and villain. Throughout the course of my collection and research, I've discovered many great villains who are underestimated and overestimated. In my previous list of 10 greatest superheroes, I gave you my list and why. Because there are so many great villains it's hard to choose just 10, so I thought I'd up the ante. So what is a villain? The simplest answer is, it's someone who battles the heroes. But that could be any number of people, other superheroes, the media, the government, a God, GOD himself etc. etc. etc. So I had to narrow down the criteria. A villain is someone who can't be easily reasoned with, someone who will kill and is capable
