

I loved the first poster released for this movie, but the ones since then haven't impressed me as much. I decided to make one that was vaguely similar to the feel of the original Iron Man poster. I also tried to give it a painted look so it would feel more retro. If you'd like more information or are interested in downloading the picture, click the picture for a link to my deviantart page. It's still sort of work in progress so please leave feedback in the comments section.
