

Christopher Nolan rarely has anything left on the cutting room floor when he has finished working on his Batman movies, and has stated before that he's not really a fan of deleted scenes. But it seems with The Dark Knight Rises at least, there were a few things left out of the finished film. We already know about one brief scene involving Miranda Tate (Marion Cotillard) and Lucius Fox (Morgan Freeman), but costume designer Lindy Hemming describes a far more interesting scene -- or series of scenes -- involving Bane (Tom Hardy). Here is what she had to say to GQ (via Vulture.. "The thing that you should have seen during that sequence is [Bane] being injured in his youth. So one of the fundamental things about his costume is that he has this scar from the back injury. Even if he hasn't got the bulletproof vest on, he still has to

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=65274>