

Wonder Woman is set to be released next July, and following the release of that first teaser during this year's Comic-Con, a full trailer coming with Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them has seemed likely for a while now. Well, it could very well be with us even sooner than that as Trailer Track reports that Consumer Protection BC have now rated a 2:24 second preview of the highly anticipated release. While it's possible Warner Bros. will hold off on debuting it until Fantastic Beasts reaches the big screen, the site points out that it's possible it will actually be shown with Doctor Strange when that reaches theaters on Friday. If that's the case, it will likely be online early next week, and if not, we'll see it within a couple of weeks anyway. What will it reveal? For the time being, we'll have to wait and see. What would you like to see in the next trailer for Wonder Woman? Let us know your

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/wonder\_woman/a-new-trailer-for-wonder-woman-starring-gal-gadot-has-been-a146320