

BestMoviesEverNews.com have run a story claiming that their "trusted sources" have revealed that Andrew Garfield's Peter Parker/Spider-Man WILL make some sort of cameo appearance in Marvel's The Avengers. Personally, I find it hard to believe any report that spells 'Spider-Man' as 'Spideyman' in their headline, while the site seemingly has no prior track record of scoops such as this one. As usual, take the following with a pinch whole fistful of salt... "This will be similar to how Wolverine made a quick cameo in X-Men: First Class and Sony's going to make sure to promote their new Spider-man movie any way they can. Andrew's (Garfield) isn't a widely known actor so they want to get his face on everything, including The Avengers even if it's for a couple seconds." Convinced? No, me neither! However, until this is either confirmed or debunked by an official source, who knows?! While it does seem ludicrous, it's

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=53684&t=A_Trusted_Source_Once_Again_Promises_A_Spider-Man_Cameo_In_THE_AVENGERS