The Walking Dead is an Eisner Award winning comic series created by Robert Kirkman and Tony Moore in 2001. The series went on to get critical acclaim that resulted into it getting a TV adaption. The TV show would also garner much critical acclaim and break ratings records within its first two episodes. These ratings records would also allow the show to gain a second season coming later this year. 1UP was recently invited to a video game announcement meeting. They are reporting that according to the invitation that game developer Telltale Games, who are making the upcoming Back To The Future video game, are doing a video game based off of a TV show that is also based of a comic and they are speculating that it is The Walking Dead. "one based on a just-launched property from the TV and comic book world whose popularity
