

Source: InStyle Speaking to InStyle Magazine, the current "it" Hollywood star fields questions about his rumored interest in James Bond and his work on Prometheus. QUESTION: After Inglourious Basterds and X-Men: First Class, this is the third time you've played a special agent of sorts. Is Haywire really another covert audition for Bond? FASSBENDER: "We're sort of talked about it before, funnily enough, both in X-Men and Haywire. Both Matthew and Steven made references to James Bond. It was the look they were looking for: spies, espionage, this sort of thing. And I do think with Haywire, especially the scenes I'm in, there is something of an old-school 60s or 70s espionage film. I always felt that when we were doing it. But it certainly wasn't something that I was seeking out. It just happened to be, that was the material and that was the job." QUESTION: What can you tell us about your newest

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=52958&t=Actor Michael Fassbender Deftly Dodges A JAMES BOND Innuendo Briefly Comments On PROMETHEUS>