

On February 13th, fans who were fortunate enough to obtain special VIP tickets to get an advanced screening of "Justice League: Doom" were stunned in shock and awe by the great scale and magnitude of this movie. In attendance were voice director Andrea Romano, Phil Morris (Vandal Savage, Smallville's Martian Manhunter, Seinfeld's Jackie Chiles) and Kevin Conroy (THE Batman). After the screening of the film, we all took part in a hour long panel featuring these guests. First and foremost, I must say this. While this movie is based on Mark Waid's "JLA: Tower of Babel" storyline, the movie does take quite a few creative liberties, but in a VERY good way. "Justice League: Doom" was written by Dwayne McDuffie and was his last work before his untimely passing last year. While words cannot begin to do justice to the great works he contributed to comics and

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/animated_features/news/?a=54666&t=ADVANCED_REVIEW Justice League Doom by Kryptonman87