

Source: BleedingCool Bleeding Cool has the heads up on a casting call for Akira that reveals some interesting departures from the source material. Besides the profession of Kaneda, nothing else seems to have strayed too far from the source material. What's your verdict, waiting for a trailer or were you simply unable to get behind this one from the jump? Kaneda is a bar owner in Neo-Manhattan who is stunned when his brother, Tetsuo, is abducted by government agents led by The Colonel. Desperate to get his brother back, Kaneda agrees to join with Ky Reed and her underground movement who are intent on revealing to the world what truly happened to New York City thirty years ago when it was destroyed. Kaneda believes their theories to be ludicrous but after finding his brother again, is shocked when he displays telekinetic powers. Ky believes Tetsuo is headed to release a young boy, Akira,

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=50457&t=Akira_Casting_Call_Reveals_The_First_Changes_To_The_Actual_Plot