

Tom Hiddleston (Thor: Ragnarok) will be on Jimmy Kimmel Live! tonight to debut the brand new theatrical trailer for Jordan Vogt-Roberts' upcoming monster movie, Kong: Skull Island. The new trailer is expected to run 2:24 and will finally drop the veil on the titular beast. There's also a very strong possibility that we'll get to see some of Skull Island's other oversized monsters, which should include the reptilian beast we were teased with earlier this morning. The film, which will serve as the second installment in Legendary Pictures' budding Godzilla/Kong universe, stars Hiddleston alongside an all-star cast that consists of Samuel L. Jackson (xXx: The Return of Xander Cage), John Goodman (Transformers: The Last Knight), Brie Larson (Captain Marvel), Jing Tian (The Great Wall), Toby Kebbell (A Monster Calls), John Ortiz (God Particle), Corey Hawkins (24: Legacy), Jason Mitchell (Straight Outta Compton), Shea Whigham (Vice Principals), Thomas Mann (Me and Earl and the Dying Girl), Terry Notary (Warcraft), and John C. Reilly (Guardians of the
