

Source: IGN More Man of Steel Videos Relieved? Or do you wish she would've studied the previous depictions in order to see what worked and what didn't? Sound off below in the usual spot! Lois Lane is a fictional character, the primary love interest of Superman in the comic books of DC Comics. Created by writer Jerry Siegel and artist Joe Shuster, she first appeared in Action Comics #1 (June 1938). Lois is Superman's chief romantic interest and, for fifteen years in the DC continuity, was his wife. Like Superman's alter ego Clark Kent, she is a reporter for the Metropolis newspaper, The Daily Planet. Lois' physical appearance was originally based on Joanne Carter, a model hired by Siegel and Shuster who would later marry Siegel. Lois' personality was based on Torchy Blane, a female reporter featured in a series of films from the 1930s. Siegel took her name from actress Lola Lane, who portrayed Torchy in one

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=49646&t=emAmy_Adamsem_on_Whether_Prior_Performances_Have_Influenced_Her_Portrayal_Of_emLois_Laneem