

Avengers: Infinity War is going to be a huge movie, and while most of us have suspected that Thanos would pay a visit to Asgard at some point, that's now been pretty much confirmed via an extras casting call discovered by Comic Book Resources. Apparently, Marvel is looking for men and women of any ethnicity between the ages for 18-50+ for "fun" background roles. However, they specifically want guys with long hair and beards. Oh, and emails to the casting agency should have the subject line "VIKING." So, yeah, we're totally heading to Asgard, but those same extras will "need to be comfortable with fake blood and with wearing special effects makeup." That doesn't sound like good news for Thor's home, so we can probably expect to see the God of Thunder's realm come under fire from the Mad Titan. Meanwhile, Black Panther (which is also being shot in Atlanta) is searching for Asian men and women from 25-85 to portray upscale guests,

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/avengers/avengers_infinity_war/an-avengers-infinity-war-extras-casting-call-a148706