

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=27714&t=Andrew\_Garfield\_On\_Emma\_Stone\_C\_Thomas\_Howells\_Role\_Revealed

In an interview with Extra, the 27-year-old actor said that having Emma Stone on the set helps to make the process of filming director Marc Webb's superhero reboot much more enjoyable and affirmed that he's already developed a solid relationship with the actress who will play Gwen Stacy. "I really do like Emma - she's a pretty special actress and a pretty special person. "One of the funnier people and one of the more fun loving people I know. I'm so glad that she's there on set. It's really fun." In slightly more interesting news though, EW have revealed that C. Thomas Howell will play a different, and much more recent, character than many expected in the upcoming reboot. (fan speculation was rife that he had been cast as either Norman Osborn or J. Jonah Jameson) Here's what they had to say in their report: Howell's reps indicated that he will be playing a character