

The CW will be stepping into uncharted territory this December as they air their first four show crossover between The Flash, Arrow, Legends Of Tomorrow, and the newest addition to the network, Supergirl. Not only will this be the first time all the shows will cross over, but it will also mark the first time most of the characters will cross paths with the Kryptonian Kara. As expected, a flying, super strong alien will be a strange sight for this particular universe, and Supergirl executive producer Andrew Kreisberg has teased how some of the characters will react to meeting Kara for the first time. “Some people, like Barry [Grant Gustin], already know her, so Barry’s completely cool with her,” said Kreisberg. “Some people are instantly charmed by her; I think Sara’s [Caity Lotz] got a little crush on her. Diggle [David Ramsey], as always, just when he thinks he’s seen it all, there’s a moment in it where somebody says, ‘This is Supergirl,’
