

In a humorous new interview with MTV, Anna Kendrick lobbies for a role in Ben Affleck's Batman movie. It's a pretty funny skit, especially as it ends with Ben Affleck revealing his disappointment about the actress beating him to her role in the Pitch Perfect franchise! Given their chemistry, it's entirely possible that Affleck could end up casting her in the upcoming DC Comics adaptation, but whether or not she'll get the chance to suit up as Robin - or Batman as she requests here - is hard to say! There's no denying that she would be a good fit for either the Stephanie Brown version of Robin or even Barbara Gordon, but seeing as we know so little about what to expect from The Batman, it's a case of just making wild guesses at this stage. Chances are Kendrick won't end up making an appearance, but Affleck has recruited his The Accountant co-star J.K. Simmons, so you never know (and you'd

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/batman/anna-kendrick-asks-ben-affleck-for-a-role-in-the-batman-while-dressed-as-a145938>