

"If [Nolan] is interested then I'm very interested. I think it would be lovely to see more of her but only if it's with the right people," Hathaway said. "She lives in this Gotham City and so it would have to be established by the people who have made this Gotham City. For me, at least." Previously, Nolan himself has stated that he believes that Catwoman is deserving of her own spinoff film. Does his belief also contain a desire to personally see that happen? Likely not, as Nolan has stated that not only is he done with Batman but he's moving on from Gotham and all of these characters. But maybe Nolan can assume the role of producer and godfather the project as he is said to be doing on Man of Steel. Everything likely hinges on what Warner Bros. plans to do with the reboot. The
