

Geoff Boucher over at Hero Complex got a chance to sit down with the newest Catwoman, Anne Hathaway and talk about The Dark Knight Rises. While no spoilers or anything major was revealed she did talk about tons of interesting things, including the Catwoman suit, reading comic books, and how other portrayals of Catwoman affected her performance. On Catwoman's costume: "I love the costume, because everything has a purpose, nothing is in place for fantasy's sake, and that's the case with everything in Christopher Nolan's Gotham City." On Gotham City: "Gotham City is full of grace. You look at Heath's performance as the Joker, there was a lot of madness there but there was also a grace and he had a code there. There's a lot of belief and codes of behavior in Gotham and my character has one, too. A lot of the way she moves and interacts with people is informed by her

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=51990&t=Anne Hathaway Talks THE DARK KNIGHT RISES Plus Scene Description