

Even though we are little less than a month away from finally seeing John Carter on the big screen, some early reviews and reactions are now online. First up, thanks to The John Carter Files for putting it all together, we have this detailed review from a person who saw the Andrew Stanton-directed film at the distributor screening. Also, if you don't want to know anything about the film, stop reading this right now, because there might be a few minor spoilers. Here we go...
REVIEW "I've seen it today in an internal distrib. screening. 4/5 stars. Historical. Emotional... The tone is sober and solemn. Less action than I thought...I mostly liked it. It's not quite a masterpiece, but it's very faithful to ERB. I'm a huge fan, but doesn't prevent me from being frank and sincere. I told the people present at the screening that I've been waiting for this for almost
