

Bleeding Cool, and several other reliable sites who were in attendance at last night's Item 47 screening, report that a very intriguing hint was dropped during a Q&A session which followed. A young fan asked whether Ant-Man or Wasp will appear in The Avengers 2 and while the panel remained silent and non-committal, host Anthony Breznican told him to make sure he's at the Iron Man 3 panel later today. This wasn't just an accidental slip of the tongue either. He repeated himself straight afterwards. However, Breznican has since denied saying this, although that's hardly surprising if he went and ruined Marvel's BIG surprise! If this does pan out, don't be surprised to see Edgar Wright in attendance. Will we get casting news; a release date perhaps? You'll have to stay tuned to CBM to find out!

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=63761>