

Speaking to Crave Online, actor Armie Hammer who's fast becoming a Hollywood rising star thanks to The Social Network, J. Edgar and the upcoming Mirror, Mirror and Lone Ranger movie talks briefly about what it was like being in Australia while Justice League was still a "go" and being in a similar pressure-filled situation five years later with The Lone Ranger. QUESTION: You've really blown up in the last year but this could've happened even earlier. You were working on Justice League with George Miller. Did you get a taste of this back then if that movie had gone? I hate to say it, but thankfully it didn't because I probably wouldn't have been ready for anything then. I didn't have the head on my shoulders that I feel I do now. Hopefully I'll say the same thing five years from now. Hopefully I'm always learning more and stuff like that, but had it

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=56986>