

Tonight's episode of Arrow featured the team paying a visit to Russia, but the action moves back to Star City in "Spectre Of The Gun" as serious trouble comes to Oliver Queen's home. However, while he's busy dealing with gun runners, it appears as if we're finally going to learn more about Wild Dog's past as his backstory is revealed. What that will entail obviously remains to be seen for the time being. What did you think of tonight's instalment of Arrow? Let us know in the comments section below. A traumatic attack on City Hall triggers painful memories for Rene (Rick Gonzalez) about his family. Flashbacks reveal how Rene went from simple family man to a hero named Wild Dog. Meanwhile, Oliver (Stephen Amell) must deal with the perpetrator behind the attack and realizes the best way to do so is as Mayor Queen instead of the Green Arrow. Tensions run high in the Arrow bunker. Kristin Windell directed the episode written
