

In a shocking turn of events Warner Brothers came to the conclusion, according to The Hollywood Reporter, to move David Dobkin's King Arther tale Arthur of Lancelot off the current release schedule. There is no word as of yet why the film is being dropped off the schedule and there is no word on when it could possibly be added again. In another surprise move they are taking Bryan Singer's Jack The Giant Killer and moving it back by almost a year from June 15th of this year to March 15th of next year. From The Hollywod Reporter: Warner Bros. has taken David Dobkin's Arthur and Lancelot off its release calendar. The re-imagining of the King Arthur legend, starring Kit Harington and Joel Kinnaman, was supposed to open March 15, 2013. At the same time, Warners moved back Bryan Singer's fantasy Jack the Giant Killer 3D by almost a year to March 22, 2013. It

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=53122&t=ARTHUR AND LANCELOT Taken Off WBs Release Calender Moves JACK THE GIANT KILLER Back