

The designs in Guardians of the Galaxy were great, but if you think back, you may recall that the first concept art released from the movie featured a very different take on the heroes. Thanks to Marvel Studios concept artist Andy Park, we have a new look at a very design of Star-Lord and as you can see, he also offers an explanation behind his approach to this take on the "space pirate scavenger." Also below is a new take on the Nova Corps, and he pretty much confirms that everyone at Marvel viewed Guardians of the Galaxy as their Star Wars! We'll likely see more of this group when Thanos heads to Xandar to get his hands on the Infinity Stone being hidden there, but whether or not we'll ever see Richard Rider on the big screen remains to be seen! What do you think of these designs? Way back in 2012 after the success of The Avengers we started working on

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/guardians_of_the_galaxy/awesome-alternate-designs-for-star-lord-and-the-nova-a148523