

Director Zack Snyder recently revealed that we'd see a promo for Justice League this month, and while we assumed he was talking about a new trailer, there's a chance he meant this new image that just debuted over at EW. The pic gives us a great new look at The Flash (Ezra Miller), Batman (Ben Affleck) and Wonder Woman (Gal Gadot), as they gaze intently at something... or someone. Could this be the moment in the movie that Superman returns from the grave? You can check it out below along with some new quotes from Miller, who offers up a frank assessment of The Scarlet Speedster and some of his teammates. "Flash is Ringo Starr. He annoys everybody, but he doesn't have any specific beef with anyone. Uncle Fish Curry [Aquaman] is very grumpy. Dad [Batman] gets grumpy too. (He's had a long life of fighting crime.) -Wonder Woman is very considerate, so even though she's annoyed with the Flash, she's still very compassionate." Justice

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/justice\_league/awesome-new-justice-league-still-features-batman-the-flash-and-a147620