

"They've never faced us before. Not us united." That's a pretty cool tagline, right? Even if the slogan on the t-shirt below isn't one which will be heavily featured in Justice League's marketing campaign, it's more than likely a line from the film and one which it should be fun to hear in context. However, who says it? That obviously remains to be seen, but I would put my money on Ben Affleck's Batman! Who "they" are is another mystery, but chances are this hero is referring to Steppenwolf and his Parademons as it's thought they will be the big bads in Justice League. The Super Bowl is coming up so we may get a new look at the movie then, but with studios opting out of spending money there in recent years, we may have a long time to wait (unless a trailer is attached to The LEGO Batman Movie). Feel free to let us know your thoughts on this apparent tagline
