

Back Talk is a semi-regular news feature that looks at the latest trends, celebrity quotes, and media propaganda and attempts to read between the lines, cut through all the PC BS and present the facts as straight forward as possible. By: Mark Julian Not too far back, I posted an article on Bruce Timm and an interesting chat he had with Big Shiny Robot . The immediate, jump-out quote to emerge from that interview was Timm stating his reasons for why WB and his own production crew will probably never make an animated Green Arrow or Aquaman movie. Timm wasn't necessarily singling out these characters, it was more of a response to the question of why Batman dominates the WB animated movie landscape. Here's the quote: Big Shiny Robot: When you're looking for new projects that are within the DC Universe, is it difficult to deal with that wealth
