Please forgive the off topic-ness of this article, but it really couldn't go un-posted. This 3 minute 48 second short film was put together by Scottish art director Ben Craig - who acquired his skills through watching commercial shoots. Believe it or not, he shot the live-action parts of this short film in just one weekend! And then spent two months in post-production. MODERN TIMES from BC2010 on Vimeo. What do you CBMers think? Do we have a potential Star Trek director here!?
