

Early buzz for Cowboys & Aliens may have been positive, but with a low rating of 34% (based on 131 reviews) over at Rotten Tomatoes, there's even more bad news for the latest movie from Jon Favreau. The box office predictions are not looking all that good for the upcoming movie. Of course, many comic book fans will be wondering whether or not it manages to knock Captain America: The First Avenger from the top spot! Here is an excerpt from the report over at Deadline. Sources are telling me that today's seeming $15M debut may add up to at most a $40M weekend which is below the studio's own lowball projections of $45+M. (This should have been done as a comedy!) Problem is that the budget has been pegged by insiders at $163M-$200M. Tracking had been lagging especially with women of all ages until last Thursday when it popped up. Good

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=43232&t=BOX_OFFICE_iCowboys_Aliensi_On_Track_To_Debut_At_A_Disappointing_40_Million