

Doctor Strange has opened in 33 different markets this week, and as a result, it's already made a magical $86 million overseas. That's way ahead of what most analysts predicted, and most surprisingly, significantly higher than a number of other Marvel Studios movies. For example, it's 49% ahead of Ant-Man, 37% ahead of Guardians of the Galaxy, and 23% ahead of Captain America: The Winter Soldier (Deadline actually compared the numbers in the same territories and used today's exchange rates). SPOILERS: DOCTOR STRANGE - 10 Awesome Easter Eggs You Might Have Missed All of those went on to be huge hits and quickly received sequels, so things are looking good for Doctor Strange so far. Interestingly, in Korea, the movie's $18.1 million haul means that it's already exceeded the lifetime grosses of Guardians of the Galaxy and Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice! Now IMAX's all-time biggest October opening internationally, expectations for Doctor Strange next weekend are high. After all, it will open in
