

While Men in Black 3 will definitely take the #1 spot from Marvel's The Avengers this weekend, Deadline now reports that the threequel opened with $18 million yesterday and is expected to take only $75 million in total for the four day holiday weekend. Analysts had previously predicted a final weekend domestic gross of $85 million - $100 million, but it is currently tracking lower than box office flops John Carter and Battleship in some international territories (according to rival studios that is). With a budget of between $230 million - $300 million, the pressure is on Men in Black 3 to perform well this weekend, especially with Snow White and the Huntsman and Prometheus on the way. It's expected that the positive word of mouth surrounding the film will be a big help (be sure to check out my 4* review of Men in Black 3 by clicking HERE). However, it's

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=60473>